

January 2023

HELENA HIGH LIBRARY

Monday – Thursday

7:00 – 5:30

Friday 7:00 – 4:30

Unless otherwise posted ☺

Lesson Spotlights: 1/3– 1/31

- ❖ English Classes – Class book checkout for independent reading assignment.
- ❖ Government – Civil Liberties MLA formatting, thesis, and writing assistance.
- ❖ Biology Class – CRISPR Podcast creations.
- ❖ Art – Art students learned how to create a webpage using Adobe Express that highlights their portfolios for the semester.

Collaboration Works!

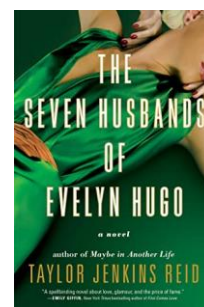

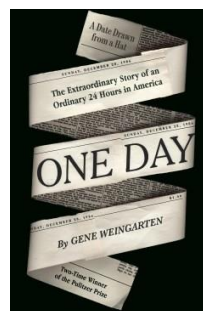

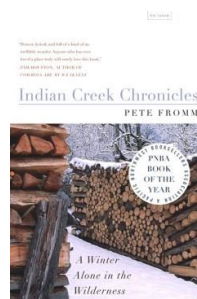

- ✓ After a collaborative conversation with Ms. Sampson, and examples from Ms. Preshinger, Biology II students dove into the world of Podcast creations as a form of summative assessments. Collaboration saves teachers time and effort.

Helpful Resources

Visit our Teacher Resources shelves.

Here's a friendly and usable teacher text that can easily blend into your lessons – stop by and visit the library. Visit the QR code for the publishers site too.

We have many professional development books online in our Gale Collection – check it out. (see a teacher-librarian to “discover” the password if you’re off campus).

Special Event: A Blind Date . . . with a book is back just in time for Valentine's Day?

St. Valentine's Day is just around the corner – it's all about relationships – some good, some not so much, and for others it might be love. Our student library club is preparing to display some captivating reads by covering the books and using quotes to entice readers to take a chance on a blind book date. No flowers or box of chocolates required. It may be the best Valentine's date you've ever had . . . enjoy! (Return a review on Instagram and receive a bookmark)

Check out HHS Library study room. Great place for an online course, podcast creations, or a small group project -see a teacher -librarian.

STUDY ZONE

Need more study areas on the after school – Visit Lewis & Clark Library to reserve a spot.

Attention Readers! New titles are in the library. So many enjoyable titles – so little time – better get started today.
